I came to seek Jonathan's help after self-studying for two months and seeing myself stuck in the lower 160s. I knew I was diligent but needed someone with more LSAT experience and expertise to guide my studies. Jonathan was that person for me. Every lesson, he would give me tips and observations that I simply could not have realized by myself. His teaching style is less focused on gimmicky and rigid techniques but more on a thorough and flexible understanding of questions to find the right answer. So, I found myself becoming a smarter and more active reader of arguments. I was particularly happy with the progress I made on Logical Reasoning.

Another great thing about Jonathan's teaching is that he really makes an effort to understand your strengths and weaknesses. As a result, he came to tailor his teaching methods to best suit my needs. This is such a valuable trait to have in an LSAT tutor.

Lastly, Jonathan also has a calming and humorous aura that is so helpful during the emotional rollercoaster of LSAT prep. Like many students, I tended to get really sad and panicky after every bad PT, but Jonathan helped me see the bigger picture and focus on improving my mechanics.

In short, Jonathan is awesome! I strongly recommend him.
